Mediterranean Cruises Rick Steves Travel Forum

IMO cruises are great for destinations where you only want to spend eight hours. Rome, Barcelona, London, Berlin, etc. are places to spend days rather than hours. If I were to pick a cruise in the Mediterranean, I'd pick one with ports of call where I can see most of what I want to see in a one day stop.

Based on the description, "Rick Steves Scandinavian & Northern European Cruise Ports" was not what I expected. This 1000+ page book is printed on thin, newsprint-type paper. The various port towns are described in detail, but there is little information about towns or excursions that most cruise ships offer.

Mediterranean Cruising Page 2 Rick Steves' Travel Blog

My Rick Steves Mediterranean Cruise Ports guidebook is a perfect example of that old business axiom: Find a need and fill it. So many people take a cruise and have no practical information to help them use their time on shore smartly. Every Mediterranean cruise has the same rhythm: Sail each night and sightsee in a different port each day.
